Timonium Trophy Winners

Some truly fine Thoroughbreds were exhibited at Timonium Fair, and Judge Colonel Howard C. Fair had highly complimentary remarks for several entrants.

The Clarence E. Elderkin Challenge Trophy, for the best Thoroughbred foal in the show went to a filly foal by Double Brandy, out of Jiberty Jab, owned by H. Robertson Fenwick.

The Greenspring Valley Hunt Club Challenge Trophy was won by Dark Chaos, a brown gelding, three years old, by Chaos—Little Darkie, owned by G. W. Stephens, Jr. This trophy is awarded each year to the best individual exhibited in the Hunter Breeding Division.

The Maryland Horse Breeders' Association Challenge Cup was taken by Fendall M. Clagett's yearling by Mr. Trouble—Heliohorn. This prize is for the best Maryland-bred Thoroughbred in the show.

Miss Mary Aileen Whedbee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Whedbee was awarded the Lawrence Sheppard Trophy for sportsmanship and all-around ability.

Pimlico Futurity Attracts 113

A total of 113 two-year-old racehorses have passed the final eligibility payment for the 1958 Pimlico Futurity, boosting the race's value to $154,520, a record sum at this point.

The 1957 Pimlico Futurity was worth $153,740 after the final eligibility fee and, with entry and starting fees, subsequently grossed $162,740 and netted the winner $115,347, making it the richest race ever run in Maryland and second richest in the world last year.

This year's Futurity will be run on Saturday, November 22, as the final championship test of the season for two-year olds. Last year's winner, Jewel's Reward, was named best two-year-old of 1957. The distance is 1 1/16th miles around two turns.

Owners who responded most readily to the $200 fee due for each eligible on August 15 were Paul Mellon's Rokeby Stable and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs with five each. Mellon's Futurity candidates include sons of the great stallions *Nasrullah, *Princequillo, Roman, War Admiral and Hill Prince.

Among the outstanding candidates for this year's lucrative Futurity prize is Brookfield Farm's Intentionally, winner of the Tyro and Belmont Futurity.

Others being pointed for the Pimlico Futurity which have won or placed in stakes so far include Claiborne Farm's Duncie, Cockfield Stable's Nimmer, Cambridge Stable's Pilot, W. S. Miller's Peter The Hermit, J. F. Broz' Blueville and Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Jet Fuel.

Quality abounds in the pedigrees and prestige of top stables with three or more eligibles. These include Cain Hoy Stable, Greentree, Foxcatcher Farm, Hasty House Farm, King Ranch, Ralph Lowe, Maine Chance Farm, Mrs. Ada L. Rice and C. V. Whitney.

Pleasing Portfolio

Accent on Youth, by C. W. Anderson, Harper Brothers, New York 16, N. Y. $5.00. C. W. Anderson is back with another portfolio and this is one of his most pleasing. Young colts and fillies are featured in the ten color prints 14 by 16 and suitable for framing. The medium used is pastel chalk.

The accompanying picture is reproduced from the series.

Mr. Anderson has been drawing and painting horses for many a year. His work never stopped improving. In his early days, though his anatomy was good there was a certain stiffness about his figures. Gradually, over the years, this fault has lessened until it completely disappeared. His "Accent on Youth" portfolio leaves nothing to be desired.—R.S.B.

Brookfield Farms' Intentionally winning the Futurity Stakes at Belmont Park. The Maryland-owned colt finished the 6½-furlong straight-away dash in 1:14 3/5, one-fifth of a second slower than the track record. First Landing, undefeated until this race, finished second.

THE RACING SCENE

by JOE B. HICKEY, JR.

FUTURITY RECIPE: Saturday, September 20 was Futurity day at Belmont Park and Rockingham Park. The New York track presented the 69th running of the famed Futurity Stakes, a 6½-furlong race on the Widener Course that carries as much prestige—if not the purse—of any two-year-old fixture in the country.

Rockingham Park presented as its attraction the seventh running of the New England Futurity, won by Peter Fuller's Arpey, a juvenile daughter of Eugene Johnston's and Bill Polvina's *River War, which stands at Merryland Farm, Hyde.

The Futurity Stakes at Belmont Park promised to be the vehicle for First Landing's eighth triumph in as many starts. This colt, owned by Virginia's Christopher T. Chenery, had so impressed New York horsemen that some were referring to him as the "two-year-old of the Century." But when the race was run—in 1:14 3/5, only a tick slower than Porter's Mite's track record later equaled by Native Dancer—a groom led First Landing back to his Belmont stall while Harry Z. Isaacs led his home-bred Intentionally down the lane to the winner's circle that is used only four times a year.

Intentionally's victory, though surprising, was clear-cut and occasioned much jubilation on the home front. The winning son of Intent—My Recipe, by Discovery, is owned by Baltimorean Harry Z. Isaacs, proprietor of Brookfield Farms, and is trained by Edward I. Kelly, also of Baltimore.

Intentionally's dam, the Discovery mare, My Recipe, was bred in Maryland by William C. Price, Baltimore County nurseryman. Mr. Price recollected that the filly was foaled at his Kenilworth Farm in Cockeysville but subsequent checking reveals that she was foaled at Janon Fisher's The Caves farm, Eccleston.

BACKGROUND: There is quite a story behind My Recipe. Her second dam is the Fitz Herbert mare, *Escarpolette, an individual which knocks into a cocked hat the theory that hard-raced mares do not make good broodmares. *Escarpolette started an incredible 261 times, winning 32 races. She was second 34 times and third 43 times. At stud she produced the stakes winners Howard, Depression and Alyssum. She also is the dam of Momo and Scarp, 12 and 9 wins, apiece, and both dams of seven winners.

My Recipe's first dam, Perlette, by Percentage, produced Balu Pirate and Framper (by Swashbuckler) and Ram O' Lette, by Ramillies. She stems from a family that produced Equipoise, Seabiscuit, Brown Biscuit (dam of Lebkucken and Koubis, the latter the dam of Determine).

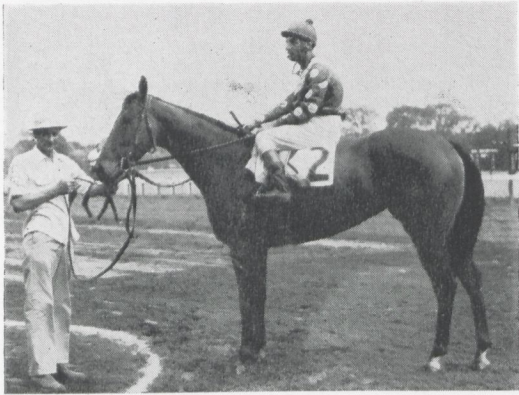

As noted, My Recipe was foaled at The Caves, and until she was a week old her senses of smell, sight and hearing failed to function. Fisher theorized that this deficiency was due to pressure on nerves during parturition. The foal was hand-fed for a week and just about the time when Fisher feared he might have to advise her destruction, she regained full use of her senses.

Racing in Mrs. Fisher's colors, though still owned by Price, My Recipe failed to place in five starts at two. She had small, mulish feet and was retired after her brief juvenile campaign. Between the filly's two- and three-year-old seasons, Price's health took a turn for the worse. A long siege in the hospital prompted Price to sell his nursery business, his horses and Guernsey cattle.

J. Fred Colwill, Lutherville breeder and racing official, expressed interest in the daughter of Discovery and purchased her along with another of Price's mares. A few months later, Harry Isaacs, who had been intrigued with the mare's ancestry, purchased her from Colwill for a very nominal sum.

In addition to Intentionally, which is by the recently-syndicated Intent, My Recipe has produced the winners Idehi and Imgainin. The latter two won but didn't quite measure up to the Brookfield standards and Isaacs decided to sell her at the Keeneland Fall Sales last year.

CHANGE OF HEART: As the story goes, Isaacs had a change of heart as he watched the mare being readied for the sales ring. Expressing to Trainer Kelly the fear that he might be selling the best mare he had, he relented. The sales report reveals that My Recipe was sold to the Cromwell Bloodstock Agency for $3,000, which obviously was buying in the mare for Isaacs, as she returned to his ownership. But even at the $3,000 figure, Isaacs would have been getting a return on his initial investment.

Intentionally had won the Tyro Stakes at Monmouth Park but went into the Futurity with a string of four successive defeats. On the other hand, First Landing's escutcheon was simon-pure, thanks to the stewards.

Intentionally, having the services of Willie Shoemaker for the first time, went right to the front, put away Watch Your Step in the first half mile and successfully repulsed First Landing's attempt to wrest command in the closing furlong.

After the Futurity Intentionally's record read: 8 starts, 4 wins, three seconds and $136,002.

Mr. Isaacs, who makes his home in Stevenson and who operates a clothing manufacturing concern in Baltimore, maintains his breeding stock at Mrs. Robert Bardwell's Wolf Run Farm in Lexington, Kentucky, where Intentionally was foaled. My Recipe has a weanling sister to the Futurity winner and was returned to Beau Max.

CHANGE OF HEART, TAKE TWO: There is a striking similarity in the history of My Recipe and Our Louise, the latter the dam of Arpey, New England Futurity winner. Briefly, Our Louise's story goes like this. Owned by Peter Fuller, young New England breeder, Our Louise was tabbed for the Keeneland Fall Sales of 1954. She had foaled a crooked-legged offspring and didn't appear too promising. It later developed that the crooked-legged foal (Discard) won quite a few races in good company in New York.

Our Louise, a daughter of Neddie, failed to bring a bid at Keeneland and Fuller, professing ignorance of the rule which would make the mare the property of the sales company in the event she wasn't sold, was allowed to keep her.

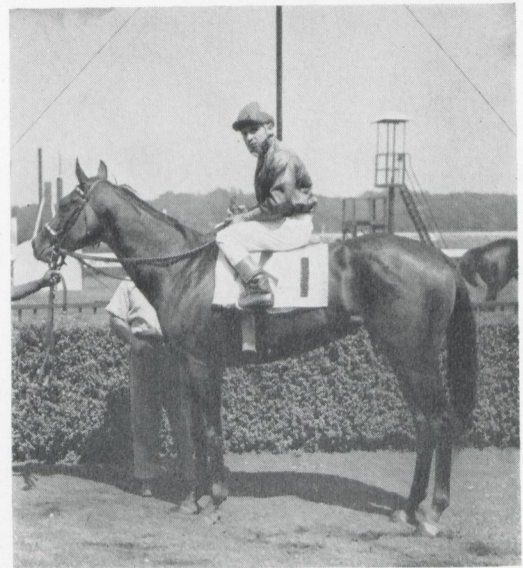

Returned to New England by way of Maryland, Our Louise was bred to the young Nearco stallion, *River War, which, at the time, was standing at Manunda Farm, Phoenix. Later Fuller gave up on her the second time and turned her over to a neighbor.

When Discard began piling up victories, Fuller asked if he might have back Our Louise. His neighbor said it could be arranged for $2,500. It was.

Arpey, the first stakes winner for *River War, whose oldest get are three-year-olds, merely romped in the Futurity. She stepped the six furlongs in 1:12 4/5 over a heavy track and won by six lengths. The victory was her fourth in ten starts. She has been second once and third twice, earning $20,550.

*River War was purchased by Johnston and Polvinale as a three-year-old from Paul Mellon, who had imported him as a yearling. The Cromwell Bloodstock Agency handled the sale.

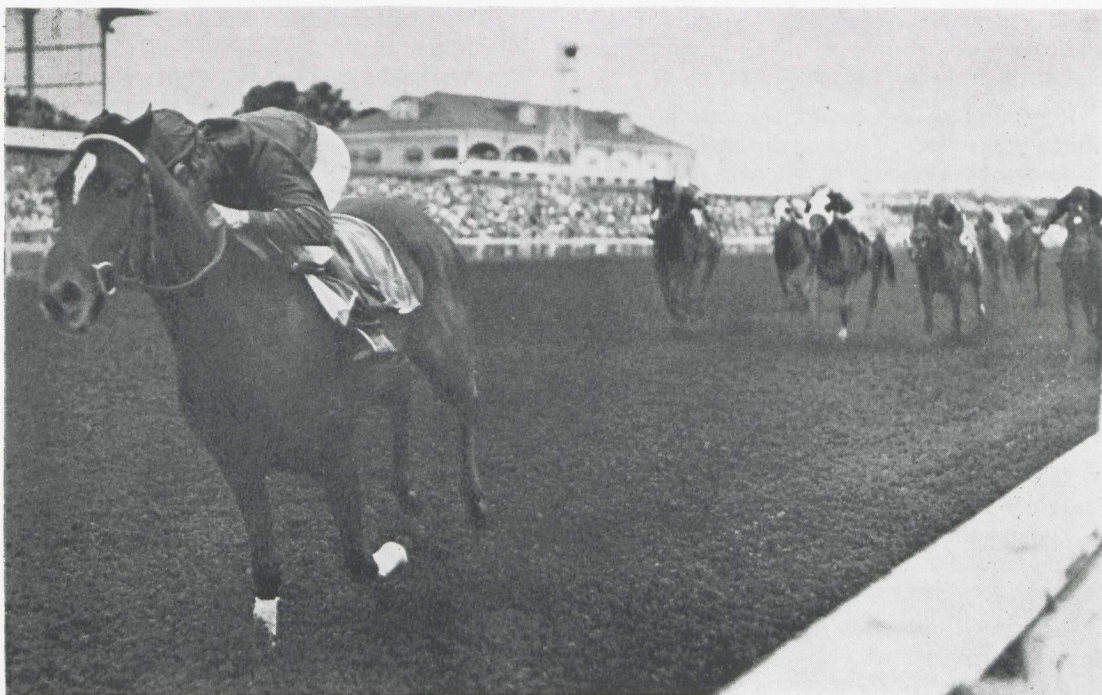

The eight-year-old is by the unbeaten Italian Derby winner, Nearco, from the Hyperion mare, Ferry Pool, which sold at the December, 1948 Newmarket Sales for 18,000 guineas, ($72,000) a record for a broodmare in England.

STILL IN ORBIT: Mrs. Gerard S. Smith's good Saggy filly Outer Space annexed the seven-furlong Vagrancy Handicap at Belmont Park on August 30. It was her fifth victory in nine starts this season. Earlier she had won the Bed o' Roses and Liberty Belle Handicaps at Jamaica to enter the ranks of $100,000 winners. Last season she won the Mother Goose Stakes.

From the Devil Diver mare, Supersonic, Outer Space ranks among the foremost sprinting fillies in the country. The four-year-old was bred by Mrs. Smith and is trained by Jim W. Maloney, who also handles Alanesian.

TIMONIUM: Benefiting from three Saturdays, Labor Day and only two days in opposition to Charles Town, Timonium staged a highly successful 12-day meeting last month. Attendance was up 27 per cent and the handle jumped a staggering 41 points. The total handle was $5,459,620 and attendance climbed to 114,223. The new $1,250,000 grandstand received a warm welcome, 16,645 persons cramming the enclosure on Labor Day.

R. R. Hunt's Hoosier Honey, an invader from the mile tracks, won the featured Timonium Handicap, which was supposed to settle the championship among the better horses which had been campaigning on the half-mile wheel. Earlier, Hoosier Honey had defeated Endine, winner of the Delaware Park Handicap.

Charlie Lewis and Joe Serio, Jr., accounted for the one-two positions among the trainers. Lewis notched eight successes while Serio sent out four winners. Tony Russo, Lewis's Monkton neighbor, led the riders with 13 winners. Willie Clark was next in line with nine.

C. Bertazon and R. R. Hunt were one-two in the owner's race.

LAUREL STAKES: Laurel Race Course, allotted eleven days of a 14-day fall meet that opens October 28 and runs through November 12, will present five stakes, totaling a sizeable $180,000, during their brief session.

The first three days of the autumn meet will be held under the direct jurisdiction of the Pimlico management, in order that the Baltimore track can make up days lost last fall because of inclement weather. The other two will be staged at Pimlico following its regular meeting opening November 13.

Heading the stakes agenda will be the $100,000 invitational Washington, D. C. International on Tuesday, November 11 (Veterans' Day) and the time-honored $70,000 gross Selima Stakes on Saturday, November 8.

Returning to the Laurel autumn program after a year's absence will be the Spalding Lowe Jenkins, a two-year-old stakes at a mile and a sixteenth. This event, raised to $20,000-added this year, is scheduled for Tuesday, November 4 (Election Day).

Another popular race being renewed is the $20,000-added Turf Cup, an allowance stakes on the grass, set for Saturday, November 1. This race, the same age as the International (seven), involves three-year-olds and up at a mile and a furlong.

The Maryland Futurity, a $10,000-added six furlong test for Maryland-bred two-year-olds, will occupy the featured spot on Friday, October 31, the first day of the Laurel portion of the autumn meet.

Since the Laurel International is an invitational affair, and the Selima and Maryland Futurity are early-closing races, only the Turf Cup and the Spalding Lowe Jenkins are open for nominations. The closing date for these is Wednesday, October 15.

PIMLICO PROGRAM: Seven stakes races with a gross value of nearly $300,000 will be offered by the Maryland Jockey Club at Pimlico's autumn meeting, November 13 through December 17.

Co-featured will be the $170,000-plus Pimlico Futurity on Saturday, November 22, and the $50,000 Pimlico Special on Saturday, November 29.

With an expected winner's share of $125,000, the Futurity will exceed its own record Maryland purse value established last year ($115,347) and will be the second richest race run in the world this year.

The Futurity is for two-year-olds at the championship distance for that age of 1 1/16th miles.

Originated in 1937 as the nation's first exclusively invitational race, the Special will be run for the 22nd time at 1 3/16 miles. Contestants will be selected from the remaining championship contenders among three-year-olds and over.

Pimlico's Thanksgiving Day attraction, the Gallorette Stakes, has been increased in value from $15,000 to $20,000. It will be run on Thursday, November 27 at 1 1/8 miles open to fillies and mares three years old and over.

Two-year-old fillies will have their final major test of the season in the $15,000 Marguerite Stakes on Saturday, November 15. The feminine counterpart of the Futurity, it also is at 1 1/16 miles.

Highlighting the two Saturday programs in December will be the Maryland Jockey Club's traditional distance events, the $10,000 Exterminator Handicap on December 6 and the $10,000 Pimlico Cup on December 13. They are at 1 1/2 miles and 1 5/8 miles respectively.

Nominations for the Gallorette, Exterminator and Pimlico Cup will remain open through Saturday, November 1.

The season will be opened on Nov. 13 with the $7,500 Pimlico Breeders Stakes, a 1 1/16-mile test for two-year-olds bred in Maryland.

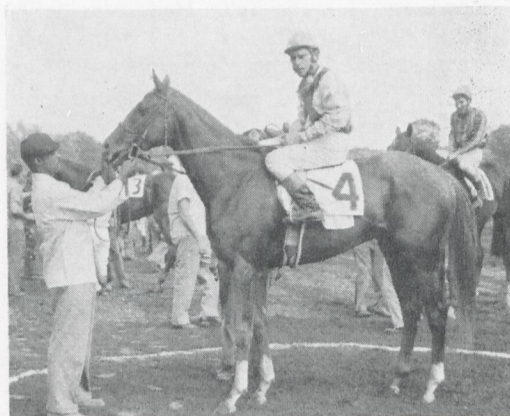

The schedule:

DUNCE, outrun early, closed courageously under punishment, but was not good enough for FIRST LANDING. SHERRY PRINCE had early speed but faltered during the last eighth-mile. WATCH YOUR STEP engaged INTENTIONALLY for a half-mile and then gave way. BLACK HILLS began slowly and was unable to enter serious contention. DARK PRINCE was never prominent and had no mishap. Breckenridge Long Breckenridge Long, Assistant Secretary of State during both World Wars, Ambassador to Italy from 1933-1936 and a successful owner and breeder of racehorses, died on September 26 after a lengthy illness at his Montpelier Farm near Laurel. Mr. Long, who was 77, was also a former member of the board of directors at Laurel Race Course.

His death removes one of the last men who fought for the idea behind both the United Nations and League of Nations. As a delegate to the 1944 Dumbarton Oaks conference, he played a key role in shaping plans for the U.N.

He served as Assistant Secretary of State under Presidents Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt. He won praise for his work as liaison officer between the State Department and Congress during his second tour in that position, 1940 to 1944.

Two of the best racers owned by Mr. Long, who devoted much of his time in recent years to his stable and farm in Prince Georges County, were Westward Ho and Nasca. Westward Ho, a bay son of Lochinvar from Loraine, by *Challenger II, won his only two outings as a two-year-old in 1954, and captured the Discovery Handicap at Aqueduct and the Kent Stakes at Delaware the following year in addition to placing in the Lawrence Realization and Lamp-lighter Handicap. He won five times and earned $66,250. Primarily off Westward Ho's efforts Mr. Long was selected as Maryland's Breeder of the Year by the Maryland Racing Writers' Association.

Nasca, by Rosolio—Tinita, by Hourless, was one of the leading two-year-old fillies in 1940. She captured the Spinaway at Saratoga before her career was cut short when she suffered a splintered bone in her shin.

Nasca later proved to be an outstanding producer, her best offspring being Big If, which won the Remsen Handicap at Jamaica in 1947 and the Huron Handicap at Jamaica in 1951.

Mr. Long was born in St. Louis. He graduated from Princeton University in 1904. He worked on numerous Government commissions, was a trustee of Princeton University and a director of the Jefferson Memorial Foundation.

He is survived by his widow, Christine, and a daughter, Mrs. Arnold Willcox of Chevy Chase.

Edward F. Farrell, Jr., popular president of Marlboro, whose efforts have done much to add interest to half-mile racing in Maryland.

Marlboro Ready

Marlboro's popular racecourse, generally recognized as the "King of the Maryland minors," grabs hold of the Thoroughbred lime-light with its 12-day meeting scheduled from October 13 through 25.

Challenged for supremacy by the fine meeting which neighboring Timonium enjoyed last month, Marlboro's aggressive president, Edward F. Farrell, Jr., confidently expects this meeting to surpass last fall's record session during which a total of $5,097,135 was wagered by 72,618 patrons.

"I realize my thoughts might appear a bit out of line," Farrell enthused, "but I have several reasons for believing that, given an even break in the weather, we'll be able to retain our position as the 'big' track among the halfers."

Ideally situated 35 miles south of Baltimore and but 18 miles east of the nation's capitol, Marlboro will be operating this year without conflict from baseball's World Series, and, as usual, is the last stop for minor circuit fans and horsemen.

Once again the top attraction is the $5,000 Marlboro Nursery, which will be contested on Saturday, October 18. This two-year-old fixture represents the only stakes race offered in the Maryland minor circuit.

In addition to the high calibre of sport programmed by Racing Secretary J. Fred Colwill, Marlboro will offer a number of pleasant surprises.

Among the notable improvements installed is a brand new reducing suite for the jockeys. For the horsemen, Farrell and his associates have remodeled two barns, one of which has been fully equipped with offices for the track superintendent and a modern lavatory, and the other with 21 completely new stalls with fire proof walls.

The racing strip itself has been widened eight feet from the top of the stretch to the finish line. A cement retaining wall has been constructed along the outside homestretch rail to preserve the track and prevent erosion by rain. New floodlights have been installed on the grandstand roof and within the grandstand interior, and a new wire fence constructed to protect the horses parading to the post from the paddock.

Turf NOTES and NOTIONS

by RALEIGH BURROUGHS

SEPTEMBER was a very interesting month in that it was born at Timonium, grew old at Cumberland, and died at Hagerstown. This was much better than June, July and August, which had nothing but memories and trotters.

August enjoyed a taste of Thoroughbred racing, as Timonium opened on Saturday, August 30.

After Hagerstown, which closes on October 11, we shall have 12 more days of minor-track racing, at Marlboro, while we are waiting for the cold weather to set in and the major courses to open.

Just as big business organizations have "fiscal" years, which begin and end at whatever time they feel like sitting down and counting their money, fellows who work on magazines have "get-out-the-paper" months. The month ends when the "baby goes to bed," and the new month begins the next morning.

Anyone who has paced the floor, waiting for a near relative—a wife, say—to have a baby, knows exactly what hypertension tie up an editor in those last few hours before he throws the whole business into the printer's lap and hopes for the best.

The next morning he sleeps and feels like handing out cigars. He's the father of another magazine, isn't he?

This happens 12 times a year (for a guy with only one monthly publication) but nobody ever gets used to it.

Anyway, the month ends when you've finished the magazine, so August, for me, was all over on the 28th. I remained in a state of suspended animation on the 29th and September began on Aug. 30.

Timonium opened. Before the horses were permitted to run there was an address of welcome by Mr. John Zink, and other speeches by sundry Republicans and Democrats.

These talks did not bother anybody, as the members of the throng were too busy buying daily double tickets to notice.

Actually, the new facilities at Timonium spoke for themselves. The modern, commodious stand truly was appreciated by the horse-players.

The aeries provided for the course officials and the press are wonderful vantage points for race observation. There is an awful lot of climbing, though, for a member of the press attempting to consummate a five-horse parlay.

It is possible, as the judges grow older, that an elevator will be provided.

Sept. 2. Received note and pictures from Harold "Fergy" Ferguson of Sagamore Farm. Mr. Ferguson and I are fishing partners—sort of. For the last ten years we have been planning an angling venture together, but never can make it on the same day; so each enjoys the other's sport vicariously and wonders if he's telling the truth.

Recently, Mr. Ferguson made a trip to Sharbot Lake, in Canada, and brought back the evidence. As can be seen from the photo on this page, he caught some large smallmouths, some small largemouths and some medium-size Northern pike. Of course, the picture doesn't show him actually catching the fish.

Later, decided to call Mr. Ferguson to ask if, after thinking it over, he wanted to tell the true story of the expedition.

Mr. Ferguson wasn't home, and phone was answered by polite, young Danny Ferguson, who got my name, connection and message right; and not many eleven-year-olds are laying aside their hula hoops long enough to do that these days.

Learned later, when Mr. Ferguson called back, that he is prepared to produce affidavits, if necessary.

Sept. 11. Mr. Jimmy Shannon, the gent who is making sure Australia's Sailor's Guide is associating with the right people while in this land, dropped in for lunch. Mr. Shannon came up from Australia two years ago to watch Prince Cortauld perform in the Washington, D. C. International.

This year he is chaperoning Sailor's Guide, and he thinks the horse the best sent up from Down Under since Phar Lap.

Mr. Shannon told interesting story of sea voyage from Burnie, Tasmania, to California with his charge. It was eventful all the way. High point of excitement occurred when loading sling slipped and Sailor's Guide teetered on the edge of eternity.

Whole town of Burnie turned out for Sailor's farewell. The event was hooked up with the local cancer drive and £600 was collected on the dock for the worthy cause.

Mr. Shannon considers Mr. Bill Jaeger, of Laurel, world's best-posted authority on international racing.

Sept. 13. Headed for Atlantic City and the United Nations Handicap with Mr. Shannon and world's best-posted authority on international racing.

Inspected Sailor's Guide at seashore track and was impressed with the healthy condition of the horse. He has completely gotten over his 15,000-mile trip and seems to be coming along nicely under the care of Trainer J. Bowes Bond, an American.

Mr. Bond will condition Sailor's Guide right up to the International, even though the horse's regular Australian trainer, George Daniel, will be here for the race.

Enjoyed pleasant afternoon in Atlantic City's "tomorrow writers' " room, with Frank Graham, Joe Williams, Joe Val, John I. Day, Red Smith, Bob Clark et al.

Wagered $2 on Tenacious in big race, because he's by Challedon an old love of mine, but got the big kicks out of Shoemaker's brilliant ride on Clem, Clem's determination and Round Table's gallant effort.

Horse named Octopus defrayed all expenses.

Toasted the winner in Atlantic City's "bird cage," where risibilities were tickled by Miss Mary Graham's hilarious story about how she delivered the World Series tickets to one of her daddy's quaint playmates.

Dined sumptuously in Wilmington canteen that belongs to a friend of Mr. Jaeger.

Motored home, keeping Mr. Jaeger awake with sparkling conversation, while Mr. Shannon rested in the arms of Morpheus, in tonneau.

PONY BITS

by Susan E. Archer

First—my college address this year is Box 2015, College Station, Fredericksburg, Virginia.

Thank you, ami, for the sales averages. The Maryland Pony Breeders, Inc. held their annual pony sale at Timonium on September 12. This year, for the first time, there was an afternoon session as well as the evening session. A total of 91 ponies were sold for a total sum of $46,470.00. The average price per pony came to $510.88.

Mr. George Fernley consigned Coed Coch Rhydain, which was bought for the top price of $2,100 by Mr. John K. Wood of Pennsylvania. Mr. Wood also bought three other Welsh ponies from the Fernley consignment and a Welsh colt. The three are all bred mares. Mr. Wood states that he is starting a herd for the "Woods to come".

Mrs. Dean Bedford wrote saying that the Junior Hunt of the Elkridge-Harford Hunt will be held on Monday, December 22, 1958. All those who hunt are asked to tea at the Club by the House Committee.

The well-known old colored gentleman, Harry Briscoe, who for many years was seen with Mrs. William H. B. Howard's Olney ponies, died in September. Briscoe was a favorite with all the children as well as the rest of the pony lovers and the ponies.

Mrs. Howard told me that the only way that she was able to attend Briscoe's funeral was to take the children to a horse show and then stop on the way home. She parked outside the church leaving the children and ponies in the Olney truck. Since Briscoe had worked with ponies for so many years, it seems fitting that the ponies be outside the church.

Briscoe was a "Landmark" around the horse-shows for many years. I can remember seeing Briscoe at every show when I was showing the Shetland mare, Fairy, and even when I showed the large pony.

Timonium Thoroughbreds

A yearling colt exhibited by Fendall M. Clagett, of Harwood, was judged grand champion of the Maryland State Fair Thoroughbred show at Timonium on September 12.

The colt, a son of Mr. Trouble and Heliohorn, was judged last year to be the best suckling exhibited. In pinning the superb yearling, the judge, Colonel Howard C. Fair, remarked that it was "a pleasure to examine such an individual."

Colonel Fair was almost as pleased with the reserve champion, shown by Mr. and Mrs. H. Robertson Fenwick, of Glyndon. This weanling filly is a daughter of Double Brandy out of Jibberty Jab.

Terming both the yearling colt and the weanling filly "exceptional individuals," Colonel Fair said it was extremely difficult to choose a weanling over a yearling for the grand championship.

In addition to the show's top ribbon, the Clagett colt won the Maryland Horse Breeders' Association's challenge trophy as the best Maryland-bred exhibited.

The Fenwick filly won the Clarence E. Elderkin challenge trophy, annually awarded to the best weanling or suckling foal exhibited.

Professional Horsemen's Show

The Professional Horsemen's Association's show had an outstanding division for Small Hunters, with both working and conformation. On regular Hunter courses the fences are at least four feet high, whereas in this division the fences are three feet, six inches, giving the Small Hunter a chance to show its ability. This show has placed this division in its prize list for quite some time, and has had no trouble filling these classes. It has created a great interest with the exhibitors, and is hoped that more Maryland shows will eventually add the Small Hunter division to their prize list.

Knock Down and Out class at this show has always been an interesting one. This year the course was quite tricky, with a triple in-and-out to help eliminate horses very quickly. Very seldom is there more than one jump off in this class.

For the second jump off, the horses left to jump were Bowie Gibbons, owned and ridden by R. H. Gibbons; Tania, owned and ridden by Bobby Gardner; and Hand Jive, newly acquired by Joseph P. Wright.

Bowie Gibbons made a clean performance for the second time, with the jumps about four feet, six inches. Tania had a very lucky break while jumping the second fence. Her hind feet hit the standard, making it sway, but the fence did not fall, and she went on to finish the course.

Hand Jive refused the second in-and-out, which eliminated him and automatically gave him third place.

The jumps were raised for the first and second place winners. The triple in-and-out stood at five feet, five feet, six inches and five feet, nine inches. Bowie Gibbons again made a perfect round, while Tania knocked the pole in front of the brush on the first fence. This final jump-off is one of the outstanding performances so far in Maryland Show Rings, and certainly proved to be one of the most interesting.

POTOMAC JUNIOR SHOW

by Anne H. Christmas

There are more lessons to be learned around a show ring than the mere simple addition of championship points, and possibly the most noteworthy sidelight of the Potomac Hunt Junior Horse Show in Montgomery County on Sept. 14 was that many a young rider absorbed a few lessons, one way and another.

Crux of the matter was a rider championship, judged on the basis of horsemanship and sportsmanship throughout the day. Secret judges were posted around the show grounds, to observe what went on outside the ring. They made up a list of rather obvious selections early in the day, who belonged there because of equitation ribbons—but as the show wore on, the list underwent revisions.

Some were careless in taking care of their mounts after a class. Others displayed indifferent manners, and a few were unfortunate enough to boast of some narrow escapes in the presence of the secret judges.

The result: The list underwent an overhauling during the open jumping classes. Finally, ten riders were asked to compete in the finals. Some of the area's best equitation jocks didn't make the list—but quite a few did, and hundreds of spectators lingered to watch the survivors hack off.

Eventual champion was 18-year-old Kitty Cumiskey, of the District, who was to leave Washington and the junior ranks two days later for her sophomore year at Manhattanville College. Kitty, whose style is an extreme forward seat, rode Potomac MFH Samuel E. Bogley's Shady Lady in the show, and, incidentally, had quite a hard fall in the junior jumpers, when the old mare tumbled head-over-tincups at the first fence. Onlookers were certain that Kitty's leg was broken, but fortunately she was not hurt.

Reserve, by a hair's breadth was Teddy Kay, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alvin I. Kay, of Bethesda. Teddy, a bedazzling 16-year-old, already had cinched the junior title with her three-year-old Port's Image, which had been shipped home at noon because his points were assured. Teddy spent the rest of the day riding totally strange horses, and appeared in the horsemanship ride-off on Mrs. Fred J. Hughes' Bon Bon, whom she never had ridden before. When Teddy and Kitty exchanged horses, Kitty was able to establish the small margin of victory, in as interesting a class as many observers said they'd seen in a long time.

The identity of the secret judges probably should be maintained as top-classified information, in the interests of other shows that need similar services, but the work of these two was done so thoroughly, and with such complete good taste, that it is being revealed herewith: Mrs. Margaret C. Teller, who owns a lovely horse farm near Darnestown, and Mrs. Raymond Pflum, Potomac Pony Club district commissioner.

As for the "regular" judges, who spent a fast-moving day hopping from ring to ring to outside course, the collective hat of Potomac was off to the trio who handled the tremendous (39 to a class) job of handling this junior show: Gen. Wayne Kester, bowing out of Maryland as he is moving to Colorado permanently; and Marrian and Carroll Curran, two brothers not so many years out of the junior ranks themselves. Never were young riders treated with more genuine interest, more knowledgeable concern—and all so efficiently that the last jumper class ended at 6:30, despite an overpowering list of entries in every class.

Reserve behind the grand-mannered Kay colt in the junior division was 12-year-old Robin Hughes, who despite her youth looks like a sensational three-day rider in the making, with her father's all-purpose mare, Hi Li.

Cathy Dowd, eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Dowd, of Bethesda, had the fun of riding two champions, in both the small and medium divisions. Little Billy Stubblefield's Sunny took the under-11.2 crown, with 10 points to Brad Smith's Wee One with 6. Then Cathy's own pony, a winsome little English import named Nutkin, took the medium title over Jay Hughes' Circe, ridden by sister Robin.

Among the large ponies, Janet Goldberg's Four Winds was in top form to take the tricolor over Peggy Dowd's beautifully schooled King's Jester, which can do dressage movements as easily as he can win an open jumping class.

One of Potomac's aims is to carry on the well-established policy of the Maryland Pony Show in providing cradle-to-college horsemanship classes for youngsters. Other than the rider championship, the prize list provided no less than six classes for the various stages of riding ability, beginning with leadline and continuing through walk-trot, maiden and on to jumping for various ages. It was a revelation to see how many turned out for each of these classes, and onlookers were united in the opinion that other shows would be well advised to go heavy on the equitation division. The Maryland Pony Show's efforts along that line are wonderful, but similar classes in shows throughout the State are needed to complete the pattern.

STAKES WINNERS—BREEDERS SURVEY

by Joe B. Hickey, Jr.

To broach the task of compiling a permanent and concise tabulation of modern-day Maryland-bred stakes winners and their successes, thereby establishing the basis for a continuous record, the writer recently undertook a survey spanning the 18 years from 1940 to 1957, inclusive. The year 1940 was chosen as a point of demarcation since it was the first season the Stakes Winners Supplement, issued annually by The Blood-Horse Magazine, of Lexington, Kentucky, listed in its detailed information the foaling places by states.

In some cases the Supplement did not definitely establish foaling places, due to breeders' errors of omission in reporting foals. Cross-checking the files of the Maryland Horse Breeders' Association likewise did not always provide positive answers, since it is not the standard practice of some out-of-state breeders to register Maryland-breds with the Association.

However, the following tabulation is as correct and as complete as available records permit. Breeders are asked to report any errors that may have gone unnoticed in the considerable research that was involved in the survey's compilation.

The survey reveals that there were 172 stakes winners bred in Maryland during the years 1940-1957. These 172 Thoroughbreds won a total of 403 stakes, 55 of which were for Maryland-breds exclusively. Thirty-three horses won only stakes restricted to home-breds.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt was the leading breeder in number of stakes winners, number of stakes wins and most assuredly in first monies won in stakes, though no tally was made in the latter classification. Twenty-eight stakes winners of 100 stakes were bred at Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm, Glyndon. These figures do not take into account the numerous Vanderbilt stakes winners (Native Dancer, Bed o' Roses, Next Move, etc.) that were foaled out of state.

The late William L. Brann, including those horses he bred in partnership with Robert S. Castle as Branncastle Farm, was second in both classifications with 12 stakes winners of 28 stakes. Steward Joseph F. Flanagan placed third among the leading breeders whose home-breds won the most stakes. This showing is entirely due to the grand old 'chaser Elkridge, whose 27 stakes wins constitute a record—modern-day, at least—for a Maryland-bred.

Maryland Futurity Eligibles

The Maryland Futurity is the second event in the Maryland Breeders' Stakes Series. The Bowie Breeders' Stakes, contested for on March 28, and won by Mrs. Ella K. Bryson's Peeping Tom, opened the series. The Pimlico Breeders' Stakes will be the last of the three.

The three events drew 233. Only 187 of these were eligible to the Maryland Futurity, as a requirement of that race is that the entrant be not only foaled in the State but produced by a mare that was served in the State.
